Dear Grace Church Family and Friends,

Over the weekend, Susan and I were visiting some friends in New England. One of our friends is a priest, and we were staying with them in the Rectory.

When I woke up yesterday morning, it was a beautiful fall day – the sun was shining, the air was cool and crisp, and the leaves were radiating many different colors. I had not experienced a fall day like this in a while, and I couldn't keep myself from going outside to walk around the church grounds.

As I made my way around the property, I came to exit driveway of the parking lot, and there, the church had posted a sign:

It's such a good reminder

See you in church,
Andrew
